HUMANITY HAS BECOME AN UN- RELIABLE COMPANION IN EVOLU- TION

Nature nurtures life, but it is not willing to sustain a species that destroys biodiversity for selfish gain and opts for self-destruction. In the democracy of life, a thousand flowers bloom in harmonized diversity, like the Amazon Rainforest. Planet Earth now urges us, in the intonation of a last call, to break the cosmic solitude of a self-proclaimed king of the universe and to reconnect with the symphony of life in evolution. Can you hear the first notes of the ballad of harmony timidly vibrating in the calm evening air, which will become the breeze that gives all of us our rightful place? Isn't that what peace is all about?

GROWTH STOPS AT MATURITY

To grow and grow and keep growing without ever being able to sit back and enjoy the fruits of growth defies the purpose of evolution, the beauty of life and peace of mind. In nature and in life, you grow to celebrate maturity and stop growing. Not so with the market economy, obsessed with processing the environment into bank accounts because the only beauty of nature is its monetary value. Harmony, with Planet Earth, with other cultures, with other belief systems, is the secret to rescue our future.

HUMANITY IS A GENIE IN A PAN- DORA'S BOX WITH THE KEY IN- SIDE

Fourfold domination, driven by power, greed and fame for the glory of a select few, has brought humanity to a precarious state. Domination of nature threatens our stay on Earth. Domination of fellow humans has globalized injustice. Domination of the mind has brought mental slavery. Domination of culture has led to fundamentalism that begs God to kill the God of the other. If all alternatives to global harmony look bleak, then global harmony is the solution. Isn't that the essence of peace? Let's put it to a vote among our children and do as they command. They are waiting for the beauty of life lived in PEACE.

EVOLUTION DEMANDS A NEW VERSION OF HUMANITY

1. A species that makes nature its enemy is homeless.
2. A species that becomes a predator of nature is a parasite that kills its host.
3. A species that cannot feed its members has no right to exist in the universe.
4. A species that pursues cancerous growth will die of cancer.
5. A species that celebrates selfishness as the ultimate virtue disqualifies itself in natural selection, which favors cooperation.
6. A species that takes war as the supreme arbiter is headed for self-destruction.
7. We need a new version of humanity that reconnects with the engine of evolution, which is “life seeking more life”. No sacrifice to avoid extinction is too big. Better a Stone Age than no age!

EVOLUTION KNOWS NO WASTE, EVEN DEATH IS RAW MATERIAL FOR LIFE

Waste is the main product of humanity. The more ‘civilized’ we have become, the more we have assaulted nature, overburdened our environment and reduced our chances of survival. Profit for the sake of greed has led to the misfortune of a species waiting for the first trillionaire to lecture us that misery and hunger are the price of development.

We are stepping in our previous footprints before nature has had time to erase them. Cosmetic embellishments, like clean energy for a dirty system, will not make us a reliable partner in evolution. No circular economy can stop the wasteful spiral of the growing mass of short-lived products and disposable goods, so different from grandpa’s car that ran for thirty years on poor technology.

If we do not hurry to reconnect with the life-giving force of evolution, we will become part of our own waste in the dustbin of history. No animal will mourn the demise of the most harmful species ever to walk the Earth. What are we waiting for, if not to stand up, join hands as a powerful 'we' and take the reins of a joyous journey through the beauty of the lands to the different destiny that matters so much to our offspring?

FREE WILL CAN END FREE WILL

No universal law guarantees the survival of humanity. The arrogant abandonment of an interconnected organic universe, confronting nature like an emperor and destroying the environment out of greed, has led to a cosmic solitude that has a dire price in evolution.

Nature is accustomed to catering to survival, but evolution is not equipped to care for a species that tampers with the exceptional conditions that made life on Earth possible. We can choose between a better world and a world without humans. It is the choice between survival and extinction. Evolution can handle both; humanity can only live with one.

Powerful political tyrants, billionaires and military forces saturate the air as ideologues of death, but they have no moral authority to speak, because they are responsible for our existential crisis. Stop listening to those who destroy our species with impunity. No other force can rescue our future than We, the 95%, the moral reserves of humanity. Every new sun invites a new life. Let us rise in freedom tomorrow to reconnect to the life-giving force of evolution and take command of our destiny. Free will can rescue free will!

IF WE DO NOT LEARN TO LIVE TOGETHER, WE WILL DIE TOGETHER

Power, greed and glory have targeted nature, biodiversity and peace with an appalling level of brutality that has made humanity a liability to evolution.

A species that disrupts the evolutionary engine of 'life seeking more life' and can no longer be restrained will activate evolution's immune system to eliminate the anomaly and restore internal balance. Fossil fuels can fossilize us all, while war, the ultimate arbiter of discord, can bring lasting peace in a long cold night of nuclear hibernation.

Humanity has gone astray on a planet that a boundless universe has privileged for the chemistry of life. The earth was given to us "to till it and keep it" (Genesis 2:15), but "corruption has appeared in the land and in the sea on account of what men have wrought" (Qur'an, Surah 30.4). Before our eyes, anthropocentrism has been translated into hegemony by two failed ideological systems and their intermediaries, which have colonized the entire planet and dehumanized our species. Communism, ignoring the justice that comes from freedom, is in the graveyard. Capitalism, ignoring the justice that comes from equality, is on its way to the morgue. That is why humanity needs an urgent overhaul. Modern civilization has failed as a project of humanity and can offer no survival option.

The invasion of nature, of human life and of other communities in a neurotic drive for domination has led to eco-cataclysm and the war of extinction. The transformative force that can still overcome futile polarization and reconnect us to the life-giving force of evolution is the global sisterhood of the moral reserves of humanity, above all divisions, to prevent the fatal step into the abyss, which will horrify the animals: “Has humanity lost its mind and instinct? Is it suicide, or is it euthanasia?”

If all alternatives to global harmony look bleak, then global harmony is the answer. Once we have silenced this round of gunfire, let's enact a new rule for the human family that decrees that, from now on, first contact is a smile.

NEVER TRUST SUPERPOWERS:
WHETHER ELEPHANTS MAKE WAR OR LOVE, IT IS ALWAYS THE GRASS THAT SUFFERS

All wars are fought for peace. The staccato of gunfire is the guardian angel of peace. Killing or dying for the tribe, sect, nation or homeland is heroism. But most of those who die have no armored car and are not remembered. Today, the drums of war beat with atomic resonance, and once again military prowess is the strategic trump card of diplomacy.

War is the supreme arbiter of conflict resolution in the service of power and domination. Throughout history, war has been the main tool of the superpowers of the day to pacify peaceful peoples. Since the purpose of war is peace, on both sides of the divide, the best definition of war is the struggle between peace and peace. How can we put an end to this unique madness in the universe?

Has anyone an idea how to bring humanity back to the common sense of the animal world. War is our nightmare, harmony our dream. We have work to do. Let's share our thoughts.

HISTORY TRAVELS FROM THE PAST TO THE FUTURE AND WE ARE ITS FOOTSTEPS

Prophets foresee the future.
Scientists predict the future.
Pessimists erase the future.
Optimists invent the future.
Realists try to rescue our future.

The fatalism of the pessimist is pointless, yet the worst remedy for impending disaster is the anesthesia of optimism. To focus on creative action to remedy what has gone terribly wrong, maybe it is best to follow the thoughtful advice: “let us leave pessimism for better days.”

Yes, there has been alienation, violence, repression, slavery and colonialism. Critical poverty, exploitation, structural injustice and existential threats continue to plague us today. But can we blame the horrors of the past and the misfortunes of today for the future we refuse to make? We cannot redeem our past, but we can rescue our future. Evolution gives us the good news that, in the face of death or extinction, all organisms and species become creative to find options for survival. It is one thing to sit back and wait to be part of the epilogue of a failed humanity, but what about getting up to write the preface to a better version of humanity? Evolution is hiring new architects of the future! We have nothing to lose and a life to gain, so see you at the next bus stop.

DO WE HAVE TO SLEEPWALK- INTO THE ABYSS OF OBLIVION?

EVERYONE agrees that awareness is the key, the secret and the beginning of the solution to our existential problems, but no one explains what ‘lack of awareness’ really means? As a young student in Europe, coming from a colony where poverty was part of the landscape at birth, I wondered why friends who needed an appetizer before dinner wanted to travel to the third world to make the poor aware of their hunger, if biology was already taking care of it? What additional awareness does a mother who can’t sleep at night because she has nothing to cook in the morning need? There is a second consensus that awareness takes time, requiring patient education over years, even generations. This is true, but few people know that the good news is that at any moment the ‘wait a minute’ trigger of awareness can occur. Here is amazing historical evidence that awareness can happen in the blink of an eye.

Inspired by the Last Supper, the devout owner of an 18th-century sugar plantation in colonial Cuba lined up twelve slaves and washed their feet during Easter, offering them a banquet at the end. Within a week, a slave revolt on the plantation, which had never experienced a rebellion before, wreaked havoc on his property. Official historiography has described this violent incident as the apex of ingratitude, completely misreading this salient example of the potential of awareness. The plantation owner had made the terrible mistake of destroying the justificatory discourse of white supremacy among perplexed slaves. The master accomplished in minutes what centuries of hereditary slavery had failed to do and perhaps another century might not achieve. In the fear of his own God, he had admitted to the enslaved with sacramental humility that they were his equals, which instantly freed them from mental slavery. They now knew that the slave owner was not a superior, civilized being, but a shameless tyrant, who knowingly abused them to shackle their freedom and steal their labor. The slave ‘mentality’ – whatever that means – evaporated on the spot, giving way to awareness. This brings us to a simple working definition of awareness for transformative action. Awareness is seeing an escape route from a dire situation.

The current dominant system is not washing our feet but brainwashing us to let us celebrate the arrival of the first trillionaire in the midst of widespread poverty, despair and suffering as the jewel of civilization. It’s time to wake up before the window of opportunity closes, turn on the lights, take off the blindfold and see the beautiful path to our destiny on a planet free of global warming, free of terrible injustice, free of the endless threat of useless war, and blessed with love and a dose of happiness. Why not imagine all the people living life in peace?

HALF OF HUMANITY IS UN-HEALTHY BECAUSE THEY DON'T EAT ENOUGH AND THE OTHER HALF IS UNHEALTHY BECAUSE THEY EAT TOO MUCH

There is no compelling reason why obesity should go hand in hand with starvation. Happiness is possible without misery for all. The poor do not sleep because they are hungry and the rich do not sleep because they fear the hungry poor. One would think that 75 years after Josué de Castro wrote this in Geography of Hunger (1946), humankind would have invented a more pleasant reason to stay awake.

In nature, the first act of survival is food sovereignty, the ability to feed oneself, rather than mortgaging one's life chances to the mega-corporations that monopolize the food chain. A species that cannot feed its members has no right to exist in the universe. When food and medicine become commodities, hunger and life become commodities.

This explains why the misfortune of billions of people goes hand in hand with the trillions of profits made by the food and medicine industries. While local food is the norm in evolution, the 15 largest fast-food chains, all based in the United States, have more than 250,000 locations worldwide.

How outrageous can this get? In countries in the Amazon rainforest, you can buy imported bottled water, while the Amazon River pours 209,000 cubic meters (55 million gallons) of fresh water, produced by tropical rains, into the Atlantic Ocean every second. Meanwhile, the streams and rivers of the Guianas, which means Land of Water in the indigenous language, deliver huge quantities of discarded plastic water containers to the sea.

Food dependency has turned self-sufficient communities into a zoo, fed from the outside by those who dominate the food chain, targeting everything from local organic crops to traditional eating habits to breastfeeding. Refusing to play by the rules of the game or be held hostage to the international free food market comes at a price. Today, opting for autonomy and survival in a self-driven development strategy that mobilizes one's own food potential is grounds for international boycott. But a single hungry person in the world begging for food makes every billionaire guilty. Animals teach us every day to share food for the group to survive. Can we not learn from their instinct? When will humanity start eating together? The day when food once again arrives in baskets and not in container ships that pollute our oceans. But that may require another version of humanity that is no longer the most harmful species on Earth.

THE FIRST COMMANDMENT OF EVOLUTION: START GROWING, DEVELOP TO MATURITY, AND THEN STOP GROWING TO ENJOY THE FRUITS OF GROWTH

The beauty of growth, which is at the heart of self-realization, development and evolution, can be seen in every corner of nature and history, in the first smile of a baby and in the purple blossom of the jacaranda tree. But growth without development, which has become the norm, is predatory, and when pushed beyond its ultimate goal of maturity, it metastasizes, as evidenced by the unbridled actions of the current economic system that endangers our stay on Earth. One wonders what the point is of endless growth without development, never reaching a moment of rest to enjoy the fruits of growth.

The ecological dangers created by humans are today's grim price of unrestrained growth in an unquenchable lust for power, greed and glory that violates the sacred principles of evolution and marginalizes the majority. Globalization of misery, melting permafrost, rising sea levels, global warming, climate disruption, deforestation, plastic pollution, war, and loss of biodiversity, forcing deadly viruses to seek other hosts, are but a short list of human-caused disasters. We must re-humanize a dehumanized humanity that has become a fraud on nature, an unreliable partner in evolution, a tyrant to its own species and a threat to life.

Fortunately, after a long hibernation, the urgency of our precarious state has awakened humanity in every corner of the planet. Nature's unequivocal warnings override the ability of the dominant system to stifle our natural impulse to survive and thrive. Nature has undermined the authority of a sophisticated set of system maintenance tools to persuade and blackmail us into conformity, using capital, technology, the legal system, war machines, bureaucracy, mass surveillance, system-integrated media, ideology, fundamentalism, and outright repression.

The inability to stop the super-rich from getting richer while those on the brink of survival get poorer seems like paradise lost. But the past that brought us here is dead, and only by overcoming the current structures of domination that hold us captive can we pave the way to rescue our future. But where is the social force that can bring about a transformation on such cosmic scale?

Realizing that disobedience to the commandments of evolution can be fatal, the moral reserves of humanity, fortunately still in the majority, have risen to join forces to grow in harmony with nature, with other humans, with other cultures, and with other belief systems. As one human race, descended from the same ancient ancestors, we can grow to maturity and enjoy the fruits of growth. The moral reserves of humanity are the only power left to create a great harmonious human family, capable of extending the first innocent smile of the baby to grandma's memories in the rocking chair.

OUR SONG OF JOY WILL SPARE US THE REQUIEM

Listen to the rhythm of the song to survive and thrive, in youthful voices and ancient thoughts. It is the refrain of the great conspiracy of the Cosmos of “life seeks more life”. Listen to it as it blows in the wind over the ancient citadel of Tiahuanaco, over the snow-capped Alps, over the crests of Kili-manjaro and over the eternal slopes of the Himalayas. It is the same old melody of life that will endure beyond the dark horizons of today, if only we add our voices.

RESET

Humanity has become so addicted to a mindless civilization headed for extinction that many have become mental slaves who have lost the ability to imagine a sustainable way of living together in order to survive and thrive. It's time for a reset!

GREEN AND BLUE MERGE AS FOREST TRANSFORMS INTO OCEAN THROUGH MANGROVES AND WETLANDS

As in an Escher painting, there is no boundary between the forest and the ocean as green transforms into blue through the mangroves and wetlands. It is the old story of evolution of life always seeking more life. The Amazon rainforest feeds the Atlantic Ocean with 200,000 cubic meters of water per second, which the ocean returns clean and distilled like tears of joy with the downpours in May. In return, the Amazon River feeds ocean life with 1 billion tons of sediment each year.

Coming from the most forested country in the world, aware that 50% of a tree is water, which means 50% of the forest is water, it was heartening to meet Diane Duncan and Dr. Howard Dryden with tireless efforts to save our oceans, which are in big trouble, as explained in the recent study by Peter Macreadie and colleagues. It is the same story of land and sea because desertification of the Amazon rainforest will kill the ocean and every centimeter of sea level rise brings us one step closer to the abyss of oblivion. Yes, magnetism can save humanity, as good attracts good to form a critical mass of humanity's moral reserves that can rescue our future. What are we waiting for if the "time that will tell" has already told?

IS THERE HOPE FOR HUMANITY AMONG SO MANY ODDS? YES!

Humanity is awakening from a long hibernation in a paralyzing anesthesia imposed by selfish and reckless elites whose three deadly sins, power, greed and fame, have led humanity astray. Disconnecting from the harmony of nature and the life-giving force of evolution, they are destroying our planet, destroying us and destroying the future of our children. They lack the moral authority to speak or be heard. Billionaires who give back because they have taken too much should be told that the best philanthropy is equality. The moral reserves of humanity, the vast majority, will now raise their unwavering voice without fear to take command of humanity's destiny, without negotiating with those who threaten our continued existence on Earth. The wish list is simple: a just and livable future with a quiet life in peace in an enjoyable world surrounded by a healthy and safe environment, without need to tell children to stop playing because they have no future. Fortunately, evolution is always on our side with its beautiful principle that in the face of death or extinction all organisms and species become creative to find options for survival. The moral reserves of humanity have awakened. Are you already on board or can we meet you at the next bus station?

IF THE MADNESS OF CLIMATE DISRUPTION IS NOT STOPPED, YOU WILL NOT BE AN ANCESTOR

Should we continue to wait for permission to act from those who destroy our planet while profiting from our misfortunes? Neither power, nor money, nor weapons can stop 95% of humanity from striving to live in peace, harmony, joy and happiness on a habitable planet. We have a mandate, and we do not need any permission from those who are turning humanity into the only parasite that kills its host. Humanity's moral reserves have awakened from a long hibernation with the mandate given by the unborn to reconnect with the life-giving force of evolution and take command of our destiny. Humanity is not running out of options but out of time and needs to act. It is now or never, hence now! The moral reserves of humanity have drawn a line in the sand. Only those committed to rescuing our future, with their wealth of ideas and strategies, will have the right to Speak up and be heard. Are you with both feet on the right side of the line? Survival knows no negotiation, bargaining or compromise! Are you already on the side of evolution with its driving force of 'life always seeking more life', which turns hope into action?

ARE HUMAN DEMONS TURNING THE EARTH INTO HELL BY SEND- ING THE TROPICS NORTH?

Do you need help understanding the current global fever on your own terms? Here's my quick conversion for you. Fahrenheit to Celsius: halve the number, subtract 16, add a ninth. Celsius to Fahrenheit: double the number, subtract 10%, add 32. If you don't think you can live with the result, do something about it. Our planet is degenerating into a filthy, warmongering, immoral, evil, inhospitable, inhuman spaceship. When the little devils make a mess of the place, the Great Devil angrily shout at them: "Please don't turn Hell into Earth!" Yes, it's time to rehumanize a dehumanized humanity. The only force capable of accomplishing the cosmic task of rescuing our future is the moral reserves of humanity. Are you ready for an extra-systemic overhaul?

CIRCULAR ECONOMY FOR THE SPIRALING WASTE: CAN A CIRCLE CONTAIN A SPIRAL?

The main product of humanity remains waste to feed the totem of profit in the service of the predatory economic system of perennial economic growth. Can the circular economy narrative be our salvation? Can a two-dimensional circle contain a three-dimensional spiral? Will the circular economy condemn the bravest forces of change to spend the rest of their lives in the landfill sorting waste? The main strategy of system maintenance is to hijack the narrative by adulterating the most beautiful concepts for its purpose. We have seen it with the civilizing mission, which was the cloning of the West in the rest, with ‘developmentalism’ where development was ‘envelopment’, with decades of the pleonasm of sustainable development, a masterpiece of redundancy since development is sustainable by definition. Clean energy for a dirty system is not the solution. We need to change SDGs to SHGs: Sustainable Development Goals to Sustainable Humanity Goals (www.crscenter.com/sustain.pdf). How long will they divert us from the search for an extra-systemic solution with their ever-changing attractive hoaxes capable of mesmerizing large crowds? How green was the Evergreen blocking the Suez Canal with containers full of potential waste? It is time for humanity's moral reserves to decide the narrative, for history travels from the past to the future, and we are its footsteps. We owe a great debt to the new generations, to the countless victims of today, to our own life possibilities, to planet Earth, to life itself, and to the beauty of nature. Do you hear the rain ticking on the green leaves of the waking forest? It whispers to you.

SUICIDE OR EUTHANASIA? THE FAILURE OF MODERN CIVILIZATION

“Our historical, contemporary and future-oriented inventory, diagnosis and analysis leads to a shocking conclusion regarding the civilizational model that dominates today’s world. Modern civilization has failed as a project and can offer no survival option to humanity in today’s species-threatening times.” This is the tip of the four-pronged iceberg (domination of nature, of fellow human beings, of culture and of the mind) elaborated in detail in <https://www.rescueourfuture.org/information/quest-to-rescue-our-future/> , whose main conclusion is that the only (possible) solution is an extrasystemic overhaul for the rehumanization of a dehumanized humanity that allows us to reconnect with evolution, a must read for a solution to our existential problems (if you can’t afford it, email us for your free copy).

Certainly, there is no solution if your universe is the confines of the dominant economic and political system. Stop looking for a needle in the wrong haystack, naively believing that the economic growth system that feeds on our misfortunes will reform from within. Anthropocentrism has no technological solution. The time has come for a reset, abandoning false narratives such as clean energy for a dirty system and recycling ever-increasing waste. Are you ready for a tectonic shift? Better a stone age than no age!

Let's cool down to cool the planet. Enough of begging the culprits to correct their mischief but let humanity's moral reserves now take command of our destiny. Action is the best prediction! Mind you, it will be a joyous and rewarding journey to see smiles return on our children's faces.

NATURE WARNS US WITH THE INTONATION OF A LAST CALL

In a world where the only free press is graffiti, the most reliable source of information on climate disruption is the voice of nature, which speaks so loud and clear that those who close their ears get the message through their skin.

S.O.S. OF MOTHER EARTH
“PREPARE THE REQUIEM OR INI-Tiate THE EXTRASYSTEMIC RE-SET”

Humanity has been losing the ecological battle for the last fifty years, ever since the Club of Rome (1972) warned us of the limits to growth. Now we are frighteningly close to the tipping point at which extinction becomes a real option. The current downward trend is causing increasing confusion, disbelief, sadness and despair among the growing number of activists, young people and scientists for liberation, even among seasoned environmental activists.

Naïve faith in the self-correction of a predatory system that feeds on our misfortunes was our main mistake. It opened the door for the perpetual growth model to monopolize the narrative, winning us to false discourses that distorted the best ecological values such as development, sustainability, green economy and circular economy into system maintenance tools.

An emblematic case is ‘sustainable development’, which was neither sustainable nor development, but a masterpiece of redundancy, since development is sustainable by definition (<https://lnkd.in/e4BfbVr>). The purpose of launching ‘sustainable development’ as a panacea in the Brundtland Report was not to green the planet, but to green greed, because the goose that lays the golden eggs was in trouble, as ecological harm could backfire on profits. The term was taken without proper reference from the 1980 UN Report “World Conservation Strategy: Living Resources for Sustainable Development” while stripping it of the conservation ethic, “to come to terms with the reality of resource limitation and the carrying capacity of ecosystems.”

What we need is not ‘clean energy for a dirty system’ or painting our cabin in pretty colors, while the ship sinks, but a sustainable humanity in harmony with nature. Our greatest sin has been "anthropocentrism," which means that man is at the center of the universe, because we like to imagine that man is nature's goal. It has gotten us into deep trouble, because there is no technological solution to anthropocentrism!

To avoid an impending endgame, the global environmental movement needs an urgent reset after a long hibernation to restore harmony with the driving force of evolution, which is “life always seeks more life”. Are you ready to join the young people who are unwilling to negotiate the future they will have, whatever it takes? Have you heard Mother Nature’s warning that modern civilization has failed as a project for humanity? Are you ready to choose between requiem and extrasystemic reset?” If you hold your breath, you can already see the smile forcing itself in the mirror.

HOPE CAN SEE THROUGH THE FOG OF EVIL

THE awakening of humanity's moral reserves instills a burgeoning hope that none of us will be the last dweller of Mother Earth. The redeeming force that can give humanity a second chance in evolution and rescue our future is within reach. It is closer than we could ever dream. It is 'We'.

BETTER A STONE AGE THAN NO AGE.
